Liposomal Magnesium L-Threonate $68

Cymbiotika's Liposomal Magnesium L Threonate is a convenient and delicious way to deliver magnesium directly to the brain. Developed by a team of scientists at MIT, our magnesium L threonate is highly absorbable and has been shown to increase brain levels of magnesium much higher than any other form of magnesium. In a clinical study of adults with cognitive impairment, Magnesium L-Threonate reversed measures of brain aging by 9 years. Magnesium is an essential mineral that is required for 80% of the body's metabolic functions.

Most people don't get enough magnesium from their diet. In the US, approximately 65% of all adults are magnesium deficient. That number gets even higher in older age, with more than 80% of people over 70 consuming inadequate amounts of magnesium.

This leads to magnesium deficiency, which contributes to many chronic conditions including heart disease and loss of cognitive function. Magnesium plays an especially critical role in the brain, protecting synapses which are the communication connection points between brain cells. In order to learn and form memories, synapses must have a property known as plasticity, the ability to adapt and change in response to stimuli. The decline of synaptic plasticity is a major contributor to the loss of cognitive function in older age.

Single trial packets available for purchase for $2.50 each.

Liposomal Sulforaphane Matrix $78

Cymbiotika's liposomal sulforaphane matrix was designed to protect and strengthen the cells while also assisting the body in detoxification. Sulforaphane is an extremely powerful phytochemical found in broccoli sprouts and all cruciferous vegetables. Research shows that this compound plays a critical role in cellular detoxification and may help to improve cellular communication.

In today's modern ecosystem we are surrounded by a plethora of toxins that appear in the water we drink, the food we eat, and the air we breathe. These toxins build up, and over time become a burden to the human body; eventually leading to cellular degeneration, premature aging, and disease.

Our Liposomal Sulforaphane Matrix works to reduce the buildup of toxins by activating all three phases of cellular detoxification. In fact, Sulforaphane has been discovered to be the most potent inducer of Phase II enzymes ever identified. Phase II detoxification is a process in which the liver uses one of two major enzyme pathways to remove a toxic substance from the body, such as known carcinogens in our food supply like glyphosate.

Cymbiotika's Liposomal Sulforaphane Matrix contains sulforaphane, glucosinolates, and chlorophyllin, phytochemicals that have been extensively studied for their profound effects on reducing free radical damage, lowering inflammation, neutralizing toxins, and protecting healthy cells.
